

Special Council Meeting

Roosevelt And Churchill Will Meet With Others On War Council

WASHINGTON, June 24.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today called a special meeting for tomorrow of the Pacific war council, which Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain and Prime Minister MacKenzie King of Canada will attend.

Stephen Early, a presidential secretary, in announcing the call, did not say for what purpose the meeting was arranged. There was to have been, however, a regular meeting of the council today.

It was announced that MacKenzie King was en route here for the meeting. Special importance was believed to be attached to the meeting because of his planned attendance, since Canada meetings by its minister here, usually is represented in council.

Besides the United States, Great Britain and Canada, other countries represented on the council are Australia, New Zealand, China, the Netherlands, and the Philippines.

It was said that the Canadian prime minister would remain here for later conferences after tomorrow's meeting.

At the last regular weekly meeting of the council a report was made on the Midway and Aleutian battles and indications later were given that some good news on the shipping situation might be expected.

Receiving Foreign Guests

President Roosevelt arranged meanwhile to receive today the Netherlands ambassador, Dr. A. Loudon, and that country's foreign minister Eelco Van Kleffens, who recently arrived in this country.

Later in the day he planned to receive young King Peter of Yugoslavia and to have dinner with the 18-year-old monarch at the White House.

Sea And Eagle Scouts Take Trip

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 24.—(P)—Two sunburned youths tied up a heavily loaded and somewhat leaky canoe at a gravel company dock here today, completing another lap in river trip scheduled to end at New Orleans July 12.

The boys, Roger Martin, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Martin, and Robert Bettisworth, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Bettisworth, left their homes at Coffeyville, Kan., June 12.

They said they paddled down the Verdigris river to Muskogee, Okla., and down the Arkansas to Little Rock without mishap until yesterday when their canvas canoe drifted into a floating tree while they were dozing.

The tree snagged a hole in the bottom of the craft but the boys managed to make shore before the canoe was swamped. Without enough regular glue to make a thorough patch, they had to sail and paddle without stint for 40 miles to reach haven here.

Martin, a high school graduate, is a Sea Scout while Bettisworth is an Eagle Scout. They carry camping equipment and when they reach New Orleans plan to sell their canoe and hitch hike home.

Battle-scarred Halfaya Pass will again feel the heavy hand of Mars if the Germans move from Libya across the Egyptian border. Sign "POW," lower right, stands for "prisoners of war" was erected by British prisoners to protect themselves from RAF bombing during earlier fighting.

Took Part In Battle Of Midway On June 3

Lieutenant Douglas C. Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Davis, of Webster Groves, formerly of Houston, took part in the battle of Midway, June 3. He was commander of one of a group of four night patrol planes that made a night torpedo attack on one of the Japanese fleets approaching Midway Island, hitting two transports.

U. S. Pilot Ate Raw Owl Meat, Grasshoppers

Forced Down In Crocodile-Infested Australia Swamps

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA June 24.—(P)—A United States fighter pilot forced down after a battle with a Japanese bomber, came out of the crocodile-infested swamps of northern Australia today to tell of a three-day ordeal which drove him to eat grasshoppers and raw owl meat.

He is a 27-year-old lieutenant, married and a former printer apprentice on the Columbia (S. C.) Record.

The pilot said he climbed out of his damaged plane uninjured. He had been forced down several months before, he related. "But this time I had only a quart of water in my canteen."

"I spent the afternoon on the beach, between the sea and a swamp, cutting a disc from my parachute to protect myself from mosquitoes and making two cloth circles, hoping to attract attention to the plane," he said.

Headed For Food "The next day I set out at daybreak, leaving a note fastened to the plane saying I was heading north as I knew an island where food could be had.

For three days the pilot beat his way through great matted roots, vines and grass head-tall, able to travel only three or four miles from dawn to sundown.

"All the time I had no food," he continued. "But suddenly I remembered the boys had told me about eating lily roots. There were lilies in the stream. They were nice eating, too."

"Once I toppled over a long grass and lay too exhausted to move. My eyes lighted on a long grasshopper.

"Hell," I said, "I'm going to eat you too!"

Like Crabmeat "I tore off the head and tail and ate the legs and the rest of it. Not so bad. It tasted like crabmeat."

Later on, he killed an owl.

"I ate that owl's legs raw, planning to save the rest," he said. "Then I saw a crocodile and heard a plane."

"Still clutching the dismembered owl in one hand, I tottered to the beach. In a matter of seconds the plane flew a few feet overhead. A canteen and a

Just Getting Set Preparing To Win War

Axis Positions Are Favorable For The Moment

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst

Somewhere the sun is shining and if all of us could remember this we shouldn't be filling the pleasant summer air with a gloom that's thick enough to cut with a knife.

After all, while these are trying times, we haven't lost the war, but on the contrary are just getting set to win it. True, we are facing what looks like a spell of unmitigated hell, but even that won't look so bad if you will read the Associated Press story out of Australia today about the Yankee fighter pilot who was forced to land in a crocodile swamp and lived three days on grasshoppers and raw owl meat. He made the grade all right, and so will we.

With victorious Nazi Field Marshal Rommel massing his troops on the Egyptian border for a quick drive into the land of the pharaohs the position there is critical. Still, it strikes me that the greatest danger to the defense of Alexandria and the Suez canal lies in the great air force which Hitler may be expected to fling into this battle, and may also employ in an advance on Egypt from the east while Rommel rushes in from the west.

Reinforcements Arriving

However, London states that reinforcements are arriving in the middle east and these presumably include the essential warplanes. Meanwhile United States heavy bombers are in action with the British against Rommel's positions, and the British navy is getting into position to blast the Nazi leader's line of communication along the wholly exposed military highway which skirts the Mediterranean.

Ask Change In Fairs Request

WASHINGTON, June 24.—(P)—Modification of a recent request by the Office of Defense Transportation that state and county fairs be postponed this year as a means of conserving tires was sought today by representatives of more than a dozen state fairs.

"If it's a case of winning the war, we are willing to quit right now," said Maurice Jencks, manager of the Kansas Free Fair, Topeka. He added that if the fairs were called off their operators would lose a large amount of money expended on advance arrangements.

Among state fairs which, Jencks said, would be represented here are those of Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma.

Senator Reed (R-Kan.) said "These fairs are to the farmers what the world series is to baseball fans. When they get ready to shut down the race tracks, big league baseball and army circuses, I wouldn't object to the fairs being stopped."

Scrap Rubber Drive Is Very Disappointing

Ikkes Threatens To Get Rubber 'Some Other Way'

WASHINGTON, June 24.—(P)—Interior Secretary Ikkes, the petroleum coordinator, reported to President Roosevelt today that the scrap rubber collection drive for the first six days was "very disappointing" in the most populous states in the east and south, and best in the far western states.

Exact figures on the collection were to be made public later. Although William R. Boyd, Jr., chairman of the Petroleum Industries War Council, who accompanied Ikkes to the White House, said the over-all collection total was "encouraging," Ikkes commented:

"This is putting it up to the people to determine whether they want to turn their cars or not, by turning in rubber. "If it is not turned in—enough to take care of military needs and to some extent civilian needs—we'll have to get the rubber some other way."

Nevada Heads List Boyd said that Nevada was first in the list of states based on the number of pounds of rubber collected per capita, that Montana was second, Oregon third and Arizona fourth.

Pennsylvania was last, he added, with New York and other populous states near the bottom.

The Senate Agriculture committee approved legislation today to create a rubber supply agency to have supreme authority in the field of increasing synthetic rubber production from agriculture and forest products.

The president would appoint a director whose duty it would be, the legislation said, to "make

Aluminum Foundry To Kansas City

WASHINGTON, June 24.—(P)—Senator Truman (D-Mo.) announced today that a government financed aluminum foundry would be located in Kansas City, Mo.

The senator's secretary said that Truman had been authorized to make known that the foundry would be under the management of the Aluminum Company of America and that it would make cylinder heads.

The foundry will be established in a building owned by the American Radiator company.

No details as to cost of the foundry or the amount of production planned were disclosed.

Nazis Wedge Into Red Army At Kharkov

Bringing Great Strength Against Crimea Defenders

By Henry C. Cassidy

MOSCOW, June 24.—(P)—Reckless charges of hundreds of tanks followed by infantry have driven a wedge into the Red army defenses on the Kharkov front in the Ukraine and are bringing overpowering strength to bear over the far outnumbered defenders of besieged Sevastopol in the Crimea, the Russians conceded today.

At a single point on the Kharkov front, the Germans massed 200 tanks in an onslaught which began on June 22, first anniversary of the German invasion, and has been increasing constantly in fury and force, said Russian dispatches from the battlefield.

Dispatches to Izvestia from besieged and hard-pressed Sevastopol declared that the fight for the important port "continues with unabated ferocity" and said "superior enemy forces are furiously pressing toward the town."

The government newspaper's account said thousands of German dead littered the battlefields after every attack against the Soviet-held bastions at which the Germans have hurled tanks by the score and infantry in waves.

At Sevastopol, the overwhelming force of the German offensive was indicated by a report that the Nazis sent two divisions of infantry (up to 30,000 men) and numerous tanks into the attack in a single narrow strip.

Camouflaged The infantry crept forward under camouflage and through the ditches and shell craters behind the tanks, but the Sevastopol garrison managed to establish flanking fire that checked the enemy. Then a counter attack forced the Germans to retreat, said the Russian account.

(This apparently was on a peninsula in the bay north of Sevastopol, where the German high command claimed Russian "remnants" were annihilated.)

At another point north of Sevastopol the Russians mustered the strength to recapture a hilltop, but the Germans still poured more men and machines into the assault now in its 20th day.

Estes Heads Auxiliary Police

L. V. Estes, of South Barrett avenue, has been appointed head of the auxiliary police of the Council of Defense. The appointment was made by Dr. Hardin Gouge, a member of the Council of Defense, in charge of Civil Protection. He succeeds Cecil Glenn, who has been serving as head of the auxiliary police force of the American Legion and Defense Council both, and who will now be with the Legion only.

There will be a force of about 80 men, who must have ten hours first aid training, three hours fire defense training, five hours gas defense training and special police guard and traffic training.

It is their duty to assist the regular police force in enforcing blackout regulations, enforcing lighting restrictions and other war time restrictions.

Air Raid Wardens To Meet Thursday

The meeting for Air Raid Wardens, to have been held Wednesday night, at Smith-Cotton high school, has been postponed until Thursday night.

On that occasion Edward Warren, of the state council of defense, a graduate of the state and national school for air raid wardens, will be the speaker. He will show pictures and explain the duties of the wardens.

Rubber Poundage Reported

Axis Armies Race Southward Along Coast Toward Egypt

The War News . . .

Streamlined

BUENOS AIRES, June 24.—(P)—President Roberto M. Ortiz, ill and inactive for nearly two years, signed his resignation today just as the "prudent neutral" administration of Acting President Ramon S. Castillo announced it was protesting vigorously to Germany against the sinking of an Argentine ship by a German submarine.

With Castillo in control since Ortiz retired July 3, 1940, Argentina has been steered along cautious paths and is the only American republic besides Chile which maintains relations with the axis.

By The Associated Press

China reported growing success in the bitter five-day-old war with Japan today as Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's armies were officially declared to have hurled back the western claw of a Japanese pincer, captured three key points and killed or wounded 4,000 Japanese.

Chinese headquarters said the Chinese armies in Kiangsi province had recaptured Kweiki, thus repulsing the eastward Japanese drive which had come within 50 miles of closing the strategic Chekiang-Kiangsi railway.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—(P)—The announced total of the dead, wounded and missing of the navy since the war started stood at more than 10,000 today with release of casualty list number 5 containing the names of 98 recorded as dead, eight as wounded and 2,101 missing.

In addition the army has reported 796 deaths in battle and the wounding of 930 American soldiers.

The new navy list covered casualties reported to next of kin between May 11 and June 6, covering the navy, marine corps and coast guard. It noted that many of those listed as missing were serving in the Manila bay area when it capitulated to the Japanese and "likely are prisoners of war."

Repeating Attacks A communique reported repeated attacks on enemy transport concentrations between the coast and the El Abd track west of the Egyptian border. The big Ain El Gazala airfield was bombed in force with good results last night, the war bulletin said.

Extending their operations to the supply lines across the central Mediterranean, British torpedo-carrying planes were said to have scored several hits on two medium-sized merchant ships as well as a hit causing an explosion on one of four escorting destroyers.

The communique said this attack took place yesterday off Cape Spartivento, the southern tip of Italy.

A powerful enemy force of all arms was on the march south of Gambut, a desert town midway between axis-occupied Tobruk and Bardia, and a military commentator declared a major action for Egypt was imminent.

Invasion Attempt Expected Hour by hour, the opening of a mighty invasion attempt was expected as a sequel to the whirlwind German-Italian campaign that wrested eastern Libya from British hands.

British forces engaged small axis parties all day yesterday west of Salum, Egyptian port near the frontier, and "our mobile columns were active to the west of our positions," a Cairo communique said.

(Asserting that axis sea lines to Tobruk would be difficult for surface ships to cut, an authoritative London source said the British navy would be able to make a "really effective attack" only with large numbers of submarines.

The axis advance also limited lighter protection that could be mounted.

Attorney General Against Ceilings

SUN VALLEY, Idaho, June 24.—(P)—Attorney General Bert M. Miller of Idaho is ready to offer the full assistance of his office to any Idaho merchant who will test the legality of OPM-fixed price ceilings.

Addressing Idaho retail food dealers in convention, Miller criticized existing OPA regulations. "The OPA program will not succeed to the extent that we had hoped for," he declared, "because the federal regulations are unwieldy and difficult to enforce."

Miller told the group he would not consider that OPA rules supersede the Idaho unfair sales act "until Idaho has been put under martial law, so to speak."

OPA, Miller said, was the reverse of the state unfair sales act inasmuch as it prevents prices above a certain level and the state act is intended to prevent prices from dropping before a certain mark up.

(The state unfair sales act forbids sale of certain merchandise without a specific mark up of the retail price over the wholesale price. Many merchants have complained that this mark up would put the price above the ceilings imposed by the federal regulations, leaving them in the position of being law violators, regardless of which law they obeyed.)

Committee Refuses CCC Appropriation

WASHINGTON, June 24.—(P)—Administration efforts to continue the functions of the civilian conservation corps suffered a new setback today when the senate appropriations committee declined to supply $80,818,000 asked for these purposes.

A member said the committee voted 15 to 9 to cut off CCC funds as a wartime economy move. Previously the house had taken similar action.

The following is a contribution to this column from "P. A. G."

We Would Work and Win This War—And The Four Freedoms.

Since Pearl Harbor, there have been many investigations that revealed weaknesses here and there. Selfishness, greed, complacency, and so on. One weakness, the most threatening, and perhaps the root of most of the others is mass unemployment. Will the war awaken us and warn us to weed it out, in time.

Congress was faced with the proposition as to whether or not to lengthen the present 40-hour work week. But why not first put to work, all able-bodied unemployed persons, and poorly paid WPA workers. Then if production still lags, take up the problem of longer working hours. The mental, moral and physical stamina of the country will greatly improve in proportion to the reduction of unemployment.

I am reminded just now of a conversation that took place some time before Pearl Harbor. "I wish," said a woman, "that this country would get into this war. For then there would be work and opportunity for everyone to earn a living." Shocked, I tried to explain what the horrors of modern warfare was now, as I had read of it. "Still," the woman persisted, "there would be a job with decent wages like in the other war. Remember? But find a job now. And if so, it'll be one with starvation wages."

Although provoked at such reasoning, when I had read again a clipping of the account of the investigation by Congress of certain industrialists charged with influencing this country's entry into World War I, for purely profiteering purposes, it seemed beside the point to criticize an illiterate woman who merely wished for war in order that all might have an opportunity to earn a living.

I turned over more pages of my scrap-book of articles. Here was that series of Liberty articles, Thunder Over Kansas City, in which the horrors of the Pendergast political machine was revealed. But intermingled with my thoughts of the article was the memory of the words of another woman who during the Pendergast trial remarked:

"I don't care what they say about Mr. Pendergast, he was the only one who gave poor folks a chance to live. He gave work to the unemployed, food and shelter and fuel to the wretched." "But," I countered, "just think what evils he brought about." "Can't help that. What he did to the rich is their look-out. Poor folks got to live somehow, haven't they?"

I remembered too, that another had defended the exploits of Al Capone of Chicago with almost identical words. A student in my class at college spoke in behalf of Huey Long of Louisiana under the same principles. And so it seems that gangsterism, minority tyrants, organized crime, Communism, and what have you make their debut and establish their power in this free country, by way of the unemployed and destitute who have to "live somehow."

Cross Roads Comments for February 15, 1942 carried an article, Intimidation From Congressmen, from which I quote: "Congressmen are indignant over the 'Bundles for Congressmen' campaign. They have become so hostile that some of the representatives of the people are openly declaring that that state will face trouble getting any more federal money. The whole thing smacks of intimidation and proves further the incapacity of some of our national leaders."

Have you wondered how intimidating congressmen got that way? Or perhaps it is widely known that most of them owe their election to the ability of their politicians to intimidate voters, or barter good jobs for vote-getting ability. Hence incompetents often in local positions as well.

Perhaps again, when one thinks of the fact that certain industrialists and others in high places are attempting to make this war profitable to themselves, as in the case of the $39,500 annual salary to the secretary of a manufacturing plant, and other situations revealed by the Merry-

Go-Rounders, criticism of alphabetical pickers seems beside the point. But one shudders to think how poor old Uncle Sammy who is now begging for investment in bonds and other support from the citizens turn and try to ride him instead. An equal opportunity for work for all, however might forestall anything of the kind.

In the July 5, 1941 issue of Liberty Magazine is an article by Johannes Steel, "Bevin's Message To American Labor," from which I quote: "British labor will insist that the peoples of the European continent are eventually offered a social and economic alternative to Hitler's so-called New Order. . . . You cannot get an economic equilibrium in Europe on which to build sound political and social structure until the living standard, both in England and on the European continent reach the American standard."

In the September 6, 1941 issue of Liberty, Mr. Steel writes another article, "What British Labor Wants After The War." He quotes Mr. Arthur Greenwood, labor minister, as saying: "We want a job for every able-bodied man; some kind of control of banks and individual investments. We want a minimum wage for all able-bodied adults, allowances for children; an all-out scheme of social insurance. We want everybody to live in cheerful, healthy conditions, which only proper planning can insure. . . . We want the same kind of education for all up to the age of thirteen. . . . We want a healthy diet for all. . . . We want state medical service; the full benefits of medical science available to everybody, a health center for every district. Yes we want an awful lot of things, and we are jolly well going to get them."

What a happy, healthy, vigorous nation our own will be when such wants are also fulfilled here. So many people seem to consider wealth, not in the terms of having his needs and wants satisfied, but in having those same wants and needs denied others. Wealth, with some, is how much more they have than others, whether it is satisfying or not.

Came the pleasant and reassuring voice of the president over the air sometime ago, declaring for the "Four Freedoms," freedom of worship, freedom of speech, freedom from want, and freedom from fear. But the words of the president were hardly cold before the air and press were ringing with the complaints that many would-be defense workers were denied the opportunity to work unless they were willing to pay exorbitant dues to the unions. More complaints that men were denied to work because of race, color and other tommyrot, not in accord with the principles of democracy. How can citizens really enjoy the four freedoms without a democratic opportunity, unhampered by union dictatorship, racial prejudices and political favoritism?

Mass unemployment. Why? Some argue that it is the victims' fault; that they are incompetent, unskilled, untrained, non-enterprising and lazy. But the plight and futility of this group is best described in a poem from my scrap-book.

"Prayer At Eighteen," by Margaret Cosgrove

Dear God:
I have walked from agency to agency asking for work, and been refused.

I have seen men, women and children standing in long lines in front of a stone building, awaiting their daily rations,

I have rested in the public square and seen the seeds of agitation sown in the fertile soil of discouraged minds

I have welcomed temporary respite of SERA work, taking dictation from a college-bred man, himself an SERA worker, who wrote of "vocational maladjustment," and the "minor tragedy" of "blind alley jobs"

I have waited upon death in a general hospital where children's very bones were dissolving because of malnutrition.

I have known boys with freckles standing out grotesquely against white faces, and with eyes glassy from hunger, asking for housework."

I have met college girls, one, a Phi Beta Kappa, who, unable to find positions in their favorite vocation, applied for Christmas work in a five-ten-fifteen cents store—and had even that denied them

I have watched hope, ambition, dreams die out of faces, to be replaced by resignation in the old, and by doubt and desperation in the young.

And I have felt a nameless terror creep into mine!

Lord God:
Have I and a million others like me a destiny?
And if so, is it worth attaining?

One might quit here with a poem so pregnant in meaning. But one is tempted to say further that those who are concerned about the future of their own loved ones, should not shrug off the situation of mass unemployment as one without solution.

Perhaps due to the war, unemployment in time will be wiped

By DREW PEARSON AND
ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, June 24—Wendell Wilkie is wrestling with the toughest decision of his political life.

He must choose between taking off the gloves and wading bluntly into a powerful Republican office-seeker whose views he detests, or remain silent and permit himself to be elbowed out of the party leadership.

It is not an easy decision to make. The GOP leader whom Wilkie would have to challenge publicly is Thomas E. Dewey, candidate for governor of New York and aspirant for the White House in 1944. Dewey has been on all sides on the foreign policy issue and recently was quoted as declaring that while he was against "Ham" Fish it was because of his isolationist views. It was not until ten days later, after the quotation appeared in an advertisement, that Dewey contended that he had been misquoted.

Wilkie is publicly opposing the re-election of Fish. But so far he has not publicly thrown down the gauntlet to Dewey, whom he disapproves of privately almost as strongly as he objects to Fish. Reason is, Wilkie believes that to oppose Dewey actively would entail becoming a candidate himself, as there is no other Republican who can possibly stop Dewey. And Wilkie sincerely does not want to run for governor.

But close friends, chiefly the young, liberal Republicans who were the backbone of the spectacular campaign which won him the GOP nomination in 1940 over the violent opposition of the machine bosses, are arguing differently with Wilkie. They say very frankly that it is not enough for him to be against GOP isolationism; that if he means what he says he must take up the cudgels militantly and fight for his views within the party.

Popular Hero

These advisers have told Wilkie that they and the politicians know he considers Dewey an isolationist, and closely tied up with Herbert Hoover, Alf Landon, Joe Pew and other Old Guard and isolationist party forces. But the great mass of people do not know this, the advisers point out, and won't know it unless Wilkie asserts his leadership and tells them so publicly.

Wilkie intimates also have told him that the sole basis of his strength is popular support; that the machine politicians always have been against him, and that he can never make his influence felt except by going over their heads as he did in winning the 1940 nomination.

These advisers are strongly urging Wilkie to disregard the politicians and go direct to the people. They hold that Wilkie can not lose if he will do that even if Dewey, through control of the convention machinery, does capture the gubernatorial nomination.

Wilkie's stature and influence with the great mass of voters, these friends contend, will be stronger than ever.

Party Unity

This militant counsel is being countered strongly by old line GOP chiefs on two grounds.

One that if he opens fire on Dewey, there is great danger of disrupting "party unity." The other is that Wilkie would play squarely into the hands of the New Dealers.

These arguments are carrying much weight with Wilkie because of his deep conviction that in these disturbed days it is vital for democracy to maintain the two party system. Wilkie is much concerned about preserving this U. S. system. He sincerely believes that its continuance is endangered, and he harbors very definite suspicions regarding Franklin Roosevelt.

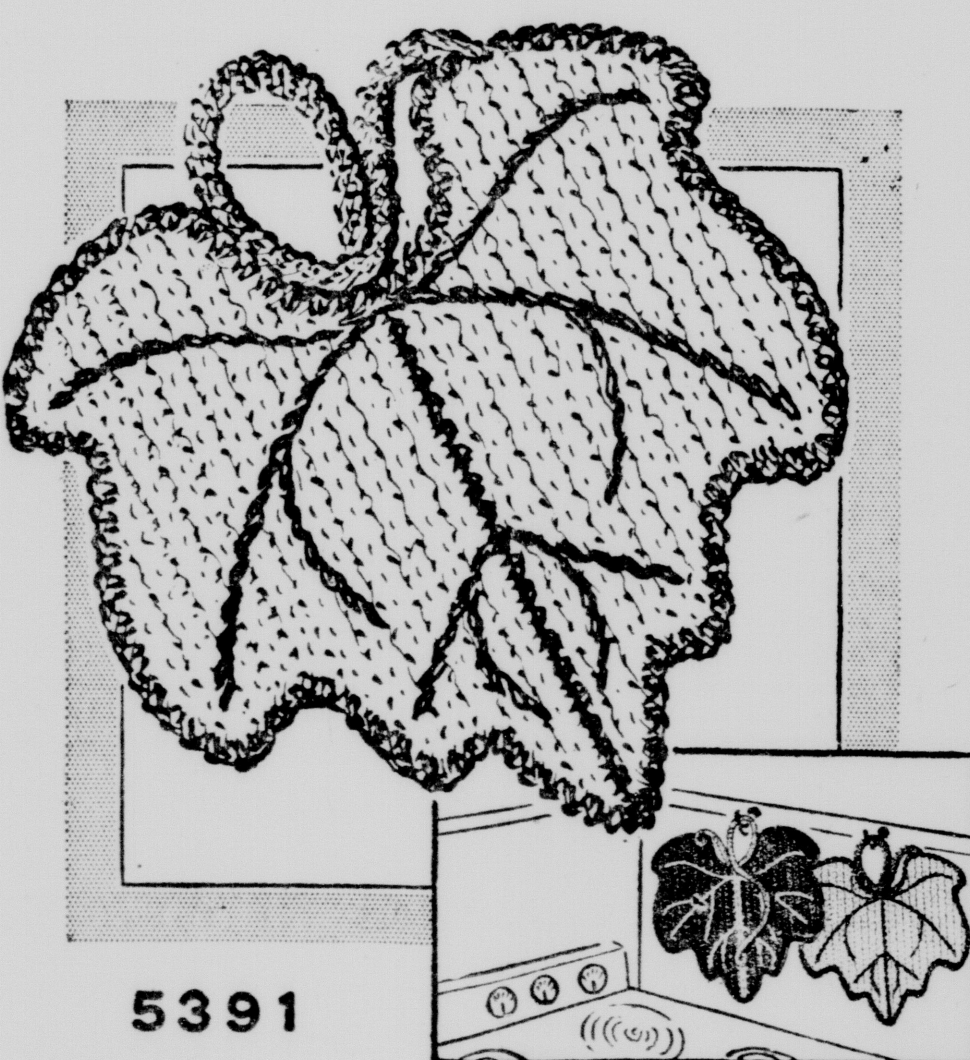

However, at the same time, Wilkie is equally disturbed about the powerful isolationist forces within the Republican party. He considers them just as menacing to the welfare of the nation as the Democrats he suspects of having designs on the two party system.

How to fight both most effectively is the problem he is up against, and so far he hasn't found the answer.

Consolation Prize

Appearing before the House

Grape Leaf Potholder

By Mrs. Anne Cabot

This amazing big green leaf would take prizes at a flower show—and will certainly be coveted when it is exhibited in your kitchen!

It's the biggest and best potholder I've ever had—except, of course my giant strawberry holder! The leaf is 9 by 8 inches, is made in two sections, padded and then whipped together with your crocheted hook. One side is green with lighter veins—the other side is light with dark veins. The stem is a crocheted cord. It winds down the outer side of the leaf to make a handy "grip hold."

No matter who is doing the cooking at your house, this potholder is going to be one that everybody will grab for! And it makes a

Appropriations committee on the budget, Wendell Lund, hard hitting young chief of the WPB Labor division, was asked the usual question about his background.

"I was director of the Michigan State Social Security Board before I came to Washington," he said.

"What did you do before that?" "I ran for congress, but didn't make it," replied Lund with a broad smile.

"I'm in favor of increasing Mr. Lund's appropriation," remarked Representative Louis C. Rabaut, Michigan New Dealer, "as a consolation prize."

Economizer — Sometimes!

One of the busiest crusaders for government economy is Henry Merritt Wriston, socialite president of Brown University. As the chairman of the Citizens' Emergency Committee on Non-Defense Expenditures, Dr. Wriston has bombarded congress with impassioned demands for cuts in the budgets of the National Youth Administration and other agencies.

Also, he has functioned as a leading backstage adviser of Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, anti-New Deal chairman of the joint economy committee on Non-Defense Spending.

However, like many politicians, Dr. Wriston doesn't apply his economy dogmas to expenditures in which he has a personal interest. The educator recently wrote to Senator Theodore F. Green of Rhode Island, vigorously demanding that the senate recede from a 40 per cent reduction it voted in the state department's budget for "printing and binding."

"The amount available for the printing and binding has been reduced to such an extent," protested Dr. Wriston, "that it would prevent the publication of the records of the Paris Peace Conference of 1919."

What Dr. Wriston didn't say in this letter was that he is a trustee of the World Peace Foundation, which is greatly interested in the publication — at government expense — of these state department records.

Suggestion To Uncle Sam

Here is an example which might be followed very profitably by Uncle Sam:

In Australia every business man appointed to a job with a government war agency must first go to a special school for one month to learn how to cut red tape. According to Australians this system has been extremely successful in speeding up governmental administration.

Not only could this idea well be applied to U. S. business men, but also to a great many government officials, particularly army, navy and state department brass hats.

Utilities In Saddle

Texas congressmen are threatening to investigate a quiet piece of obstructionism by certain members of the Power Division of the War Production Board which they believe is undermining some of the things Roosevelt has stood for most vigorously — public power.

The incident involves the town of Winters, Tex., which wanted to build its own municipal power plant. It had quarreled with the West Texas utilities, a subsidiary of Midwest Utilities, and had bought all its equipment and had started construction of its own plant before the war.

The other day, the city fathers of Winters, Tex., got a telegram from the War Production board, ordering them to stop construction.

All Right, Put It Back in the Box

Since the city has its materials already on hand and its poles already in the ground, its officials were mystified by the order and came to Washington to find out what had happened. So far they have been given pretty much of a run around.

Meanwhile they have been paying interest at $540.10 per month on their investment, and have already paid out $124,000 on the plant. To end the delays, the Winters, Tex., city council offered to buy out the Midwest Utilities plant at a price to be decided upon by a third party. But this was refused.

Finally A. L. Hogan and W. O. Coe discovered what appears to be the root of the trouble. It came from Ellsworth J. Hand, formerly of the Potomac Electric Power Company, but now an official of the Production Board's pro-utility Power division.

After a long argument, during which Hand flatly refused to reach any compromise, Hogan finally said:

"Then your position is that these engines could stand on the floor of the factory and deteriorate, and no preference rating would be granted to us for their use?"

"Yes," Hand shot back.

"Then the key to the situation stands is that this country has been turned over to the private utilities?" was the Texan's final query.

"That's right," replied Hand, "the private utilities will run this country, at least until the war is over."

DOOLITTLE'S STORE

CHAPTER XII

ABOVE the rush of wind Hunter Dent yelled again at Red Ballard, "Idiot, what's the idea?" Red kept going. She shouted back at him, "Taking you back to jail!" She ran a red light in town and turned down the side street where the jail was located. She shot on the brakes. Out she leaped. She ran into the jail office. Hunter followed, as always both irritated and amused by her precipitous movements. Red was just finishing her instructions to Sheriff Anderson.

"The Ghibarto twins are catching the ten-nine plane. I happen to know, Sheriff. There it is now." They stopped to listen. Overhead came the roar of the Miami plane. "Those twins are the killers, Sheriff!" In a moment Red came out, and right after her the red-faced officer. "Come on, Hunter!" the girl said, and hauled Hunter into her roadster while the sheriff jumped into his big official car.

When Red raced up to the airport they saw the Ghibarto boys getting ready to go aboard. Sheriff Anderson stepped up. Red and Hunter ran through the gate.

"Sorry, gentlemen," Sheriff Anderson said, "but I have to detain you."

The exotic young men shed all their debonair sophistication. One of them reached for his revolver. Anderson had expected something like that. A huge, fast worker, he knocked the twin down. Passengers were excited, and a child screamed. Hunter had moved in. When the other twin looked as if he would resist arrest Hunter landed a clean lick right back of the beautiful youth's ear. He went down with his brother. Anderson put the bracelets on the two dazed fellows and soon was going back to town with them.

When Junior Ballard was able to make a statement, he corroborated pretty much Hunter's hypothesis. When the details were all cleared up it was fairly well established that the Ghibartos shot the bank messenger, and had tried to kill Junior but had missed him twice and the shot that caught him was at a distance down the street, beyond the paving, where Junior had his car parked and waiting.

STRICKLAND BALLARD came out to the estate. It was a sunny autumn day. The men stood and looked over the farmlands, talked in a desultory way about plans for the next year.

"I'm raising your salary five hundred dollars," Ballard said. He eyed the young manager. All at once the spry blood in him began to circulate. He broke into a laugh. "I'm fixing to come across, Dent. I restore to you your strain of corn. I have promised some through advertising, but I'll either pay you for the seed grain, or withdraw the offer and work it out some way with the customers. As for your horse, that, too, belongs to you. That is, unless you wish to make a gift of the animal to Bella, but if I were you I'd not do that unless you kept a halter on the whole matter. Finally, sir, I am going to beg your pardon. I beg your most humble pardon, Dent. I've been through a lot these last few days, and I've done some thinking as I went along. I've made a few resolutions."

Hunter looked at the man. He was doing a better job than Hunter had dreamed. "For instance?"

"I've decided to ease up on the pill business and work at the daddy job a little better. To my mind you have been a true sport. Hunter, you've even worked at my job, trying to rear my children as best you can, and I have to take my hat off to you in your determination to protect Junior. You're a better man than I am, sir."

Hunter was red with both pleasure and embarrassment. Triumph in the face of true sportsmanship is never the thing one dreams of in burning rage and desire for revenge.

He and Ballard shook hands, and the man went and got into his waiting limousine and was whisked back to town.

Hunter went slowly to the office. There he telephoned Squire Doolittle. "I have a little chore for you, Judge," he said. "You'll be there in about thirty minutes? Okay." He hung up, went down, and backed out his car. He hunted around for Red. He found her on the front porch. "Hello," he grinned. "How about a ride?"

"You taking me for a ride?" "Something of the sort. Wait here till I bring my car."

"Mine's right out here. How about just going with me?" "You might not want to go where I'm going."

"Where's that?" "Doolittle's store."

"Sure," she laughed. "I was going there, too."

They went and got into her car and soon they were going along a gently rolling country road through an azure day.

"Am I riding Firefly in the horse show, Hunter?"

"I'll tell you yes or no in about fifteen minutes."

She gave him a questioning look, and then laughed with odd merriment. "Then it will be yes. What'll you wager?"

"Let me see," he mused. "What do I have to put on the barrel-head?"

"Yourself?"

"Okay. I'll bet me against you."

THEY came to the little rustic store. Squire Doolittle, with one suspender, sat on the porch waiting. Red and Hunter got out and ran up the steps.

"Well, Judge," Hunter said, "here we are."

Squire Doolittle laughed the mellow laugh of an old man who still remembers the habits of the young heart. He looked from one to the other of them.

"W-well, now, folks," he drawled. "I've got a dockmint in one of my hip pockets. Lemme see now." He took out a large envelope from his right pocket. "This here is a wedding license what I bought just as you directed me to, Hunter. It's a fast rate license and it'll do the job."

He reached into his other pocket and brought out another envelope. Now he grinned at Bella Ballard. "Miss Red, I done just exactly what I told you I'd do. I went to the co't house 'l other day, when you said you was laying a bet, and bought this pair of license to marry you by. They seem to be fast class prime marriage license. One is writ out to Bella Ballard and Hunter Dent, and the other is writ out to Hunter Dent and Bella Ballard. Whichever one I use to marry you two by, the other loses his barrelhead. Which shall it be?"

Red looked at Hunter; Hunter looked at Red.

"Ah!" they both said at the same time.

"You'll have to get Sam, or Mrs. Doolittle to witness," Hunter suggested.

"I'll go to the house and fetch the little lady."

Squire Doolittle moved off to get his three hundred pound wife, Hunter and Red collapsed into each other's arms.

"I win!" Hunter said.

"No, I win," Red half-laughed and half-weep.

They stood a moment there in the bland afternoon and kissed. Then Squire and Mrs. Doolittle came. In a few moments Red said, "I do," and Hunter Dent said, "I do."

Hunter, as they drove back to the estate, hadn't ever seen the day so gay in autumn, or the brown land so kindly under a sky in the fall.

Sink 13 Vessels In Caribbean

Survivor Stories Give Toll at 23 Dead, 103 Missing

WASHINGTON, June 24—(AP)—The navy announced Wednesday that 13 United Nations merchant vessels "were victims of enemy submarine action" in the Caribbean area during the 12-day period beginning June 3.

Most if not all of the vessels were sunk, it was understood here, either by torpedoes or by shell fire or in some cases by both.

Involved in the series of actions, the navy said, were three small and two medium-sized United States vessels, one small and four medium-sized British merchantmen, a small Honduran ship, a small Norwegian ship, and a small Dutch ship.

Some details on nine of the sinkings were obtained by the Associated Press from survivors "in a Caribbean port" and this information, together with figures received on two more ships later, showed a total of 23 listed as dead, 103 missing and 567 rescued.

Survivors told of suffering and heroism, of encountering English-speaking axis submarine commanders, and of being photographed by a German cameraman.

Charge Attack On Congress

WASHINGTON, June 24—(AP)—The Dies committee charged Tuesday that Communist front organizations had launched a campaign to "discredit" and "obscure" Congress and thus alter the American form of government.

A spearhead of the attack, the committee charged, was the Union for Democratic Action, which it described as an "organization composed chiefly of individuals who have been a significant part of the interlocking directorate of the Communist movement in the United States."

Efforts have been made, it indicated, to purge members of congress on the ground that they had opposed some measures desired by the executive branch of the government. These efforts, the committee said, were based on the view that the "sole remaining function of congress is to ratify by unanimous vote whatever wish is born anywhere at any time in the whole vast structure of the executive branch of government down to the last whim of any and every administrative official."

(In New York, Dr. Frank Kingdon, president of the union for Democratic Action, denied that the union was a Communist front organization or sought to obliterate Congress. Both charges, he said, were "unadulterated lies." He said his group wanted a Congress that would win the war and was opposed to "appeasers, anti-Democrats, anti-semites and all the paid agents of reaction.")

The nine ships, whose survivors were interviewed by the Associated Press, follow in the chronological order of their loss:
June 3 — A small Norwegian cargo ship. Thirteen of crew believed lost; 11 saved after clinging all night to drifting lumber.
June 4 — A medium-sized United States cargo ship. Captain H. G. Beck, 38, of Houston, Texas, and 16 others safe in port; 15 of crew believed killed in torpedoing and nine more missing in the sinking of first of two rescue vessels which picked up survivors.

June 8 — A small British freighter. Twenty three survivors of crew of 27 saved; three were killed in explosion and one died aboard rescue ship.

June 10 — A medium-sized British cargo vessel. Twelve listed as dead after double torpedoing and 51 rescued.

June 10 — A medium-sized British cargo ship. One man killed in torpedo explosion, 47 others rescued.

June 12 — A medium-sized United States cargo ship. Two crewmen killed in explosion, two others died of wounds and Captain Robert M. Pierce, 41, of San Pedro, Calif., and 33 others were rescued.

June 12 — A United States passenger-cargo vessel one hundred and seventy-two survivors, ashore, 29 missing.

June 13 — A medium-sized United States cargo ship. Fifty five of crew of 56 rescued. Second Engineer Abe Ediger of Kansas City, the one fatality, was lost overboard the rescue craft.

Stall Japanese On Rail Route

CHUNGKING, June 24—(AP)—

The Japanese drive to open an all-rail route from Shanghai to Singapore and thus obtain communications immune to sea attack, has been stalled at least temporarily on two of the vital fronts and the Chinese are counterattacking successfully at some places, government sources announced Tuesday.

But the invaders have reinforced their armies in the Chekiang-Kiangsi theater, where they are trying to forge one part of the link, and, for effective counter blows, the Chinese need more weapons from their allies, a spokesman said.

Since June 16 the jaws of the over but that work would not be resumed until improvement occurred in the construction material and equipment fields.

Ceiling Over Retail Services

WASHINGTON, June 24—(AP)—

Consumer services, a $5,000,000,000 industry carried on in 1,000,000 establishments throughout the country, were placed under a wartime price ceiling Tuesday night with top prices pegged at the highest levels of March. The ceiling takes effect July 1.

The order covers laundries, undertakers, garages and all sorts of repair shops. As a general rule, it covers all retail services performed on things, such as shoe-shining and piano-tuning, and it exempts services performed on or for people, such as those of barbers, doctors and lawyers.

Household repairs done by the job come under the order. As an example, the ceiling would cover a contract for roofing a house if the contractor named a price for the whole job. If the householder bought the shingles and

Inertia Grips Some Small Business Men

Reason Why Some Do Not Get Federal Contracts

By James Marlow and William Pinkerton

WASHINGTON, June 24—Wide World—Ever hear of a business man who showed his wares to a prospect once, and then went home and sat down, saying, "Well, he knows what I've got. Guess he will call up if he ever has any business for me?"

Men in the government service can tell you of dozens of them. In this case, though, the prospect was the U. S. A.

Instances of this attitude are reported repeatedly from the under-manned field offices of the War Production Board, and from the regional offices of the department of commerce and other agencies.

Agents report cases of "apathy" among small business men suddenly confronted with the challenging task of finding their niche in the war production drive.

Men who have licked the toughest kind of selling jobs in peace time, they report, have folded up without a fight for a government contract.

Can't Find Them All

The government's side of the story is that no agency—however all-seeing and powerful—could possibly search out every little plant and shop in America which has the stuff that wars are won with.

But that's only part of the story. Here are some of the reasons why smaller industrialists have had hard pushing to get into war production as seen by a well-informed field agent:

Reasons Given

1. Lack of expert engineering and accounting assistance. Lacking skilled engineers many small businessmen will pore over blueprints for days to find out how a new item should be made and what adjustments in the plant equipment are needed. Lacking aides, the small businessman who has stuck to one product and determined his costs by experience is stumped at trying to figure the costs of a change-over for government work.

Need Financing

Accustomed to financing on a "pay-as-you-go" basis many of the smaller industrialists lack experience in dealing with bankers and large financing organizations. Government delay in making payments also may mean financial embarrassment to a smaller industrialist who is used to paying his men every Saturday night and buying material on a few days net cash basis.

The new agency, the smaller war plants corporation, just set up in the War Production Board, may prove helpful in financing small shops changing over for war work. The army and navy have sought to assist the smaller concerns, too, by arranging a 20 per cent advance payment for contracts.

Complicated Forms

3. Long and complicated government forms. The cautious business man, accustomed to dealing with his customers by establishing business practices, is apt to shy off from government contract with bonds, fines and other types of penalties.

No Prime Contractors

4. Lack of Prime Contractors. While sub-contracting is the major hope of the smaller industrialists, such men in regions like the south and the prairie states find a lack of large scale contractors close by from which they might secure sub-contracts.

Close Tolerance

5. Demands For Close Tolerance. Many small industrialists report that government specifications in some cases, have demanded precisions such as two-tenths of an inch were practical considerations did not warrant such refinement. In one case an officer was reported to have rejected 1,000 steel cots because the government's label was stamped only two inches from the end of the frame—when it should have been three inches from the end.

6. "Manufacturer's Specifications." In some cases, specifications required techniques or processes or materials controlled by particular manufacturers. The effect was to bar other manufacturers from getting contracts.

7. Lack of coordination between government agencies.

Just Getting Set Preparing To Win War

That long supply route upon which Rommel must depend is one of his great weaknesses and one which is likely to cost him dear.

Rommel's success has spurred the Nazi efforts to smash the Russians. South of Kharkov the Reds have been compelled to withdraw somewhat but, as Moscow points out, local successes of this sort cannot be decisive. The Hitlerites also continue to pile their dead before the bastions of Sevastopol, where the Muscovites are making an epic stand.

Reds May Meet Some Defeats

The terrific weight which Hitler is flinging against these Red positions, and the fresh reserves which he is holding in readiness, would make it rash for one to predict that the Russians won't be forced to make further withdrawals. Still, every day that the Red line holds is a big stride toward allied victory. Moscow claims that Hitler's forces have been weakened to the point where he is incapable of undertaking a wholesale offensive. Meantime we cannot doubt that the Fuehrer can at least develop in individual sectors a striking power which will be bound to move something.

The axis position being favorable at the moment, its no surprise to see the Germans undertaking a hot propaganda campaign to precipitate war between Japan and Russia. As I've remarked before, the indications are that the Japs don't want to fight Russia now, because they already have more on their hands than they can take care of.

Tokyo Ready

However, there's no doubt that opportunist Tokyo is getting set for the contingency. Fresh troops have been sent into Manchukuo and the Nipponese have in the neighborhood of a million men on the Siberian border ready for action.

Many observers believe the Japanese won't be drawn into conflict with Russia if the axis appears to be losing in Europe or if Hitler should start winning hands down. They don't intend to pull his chestnuts out of the fire when he is losing, and if he is winning they don't need to jump in. The moment when they might attack Siberia would be one like the present, when the Germans appear to be getting on well but need additional help to make the grade. Hence the Berlin propaganda campaign now.

Nazi Wedge Into Red Army At Kharkov

On the Kharkov front the story was similar.

Don't Mind Losses

The Germans apparently are oblivious to immense losses as they threw in ever greater numbers of tanks, planes and infantry, but they still have not managed to achieve any real success, declared Red Star, official army paper.

While the defenders of the besieged Crimean port of Sevastopol staved off superior enemy forces in a battle now in its 20th day, the strong attack in the Kharkov area began Monday and has gained in vigor ever since, the Russians said.

"The enemy is supporting his troops with large numbers of aircraft, raiding many advanced lines of our defenses and the adjoining area," said Red Star.

"Our fliers patrolling over the Strong area are repulsing the enemy in the air... they are greatly assisted by our reinforced anti-aircraft defenses...."

Use Tank Masses

"The Germans are using big tank masses to clear the way for their infantry."

"The enemy is sustaining heavy losses in war equipment and manpower and continues to increase the weight of attacks and in one sector succeeded in wedging into our defense lines."

"Simultaneously the Germans attempted to break through in other sectors, bringing into action groups of 20 to 30 tanks each."

"They met with no success, however, and after stiff engagements only a few of our units were compelled to retreat and take up new defense lines."

For the first time the Soviet information bureau told today of night combat about the Crimean citadel, saying the outnumbered Red army men, marines, sailors and guerrillas fought on against the Germans through the hours of darkness.

Gains Limited

Nazi gains in the Kharkov region apparently were limited for the noon communiqué reported no material changes overnight on the mainland.

The information bureau said that German motorized infantry supported by tanks attacked a Soviet-occupied settlement in one phase of the Kharkov front fighting.

"In a fierce engagement we destroyed 13 enemy tanks, three guns, other military equipment," it said. "The enemy suffered heavy losses in men."

More than 150 Germans were reported killed in hand to hand combat when Red Army men on the Kalinin front repelled a Nazi attack and then rushed the invaders' positions.

About 150 more died, the bureau reported, in a troop train wrecked by guerrillas of the Bryansk sector southwest of Moscow.

available at the earliest possible time, an adequate supply of rubber which, when added to rubber being supplied by other agencies, will be sufficient to meet the military and civilian needs."

Materials For Armed Forces

In the meantime, a pioneer experimenter in synthetic rubber told the Senate Agriculture subcommittee that the country had sufficient raw materials now to produce enough elastic for military needs.

The Senate group, seeking a method of producing an abundant domestic supply of rubber from alcohol derived from grain, heard Dr. O. P. Sweeney of the Iowa State College of Agriculture, predict that unless more rubber were produced to permit continuance of present means of locomotion "our culture will collapse."

Referring to various bases used in synthetic rubber production, Sweeney contended grain was the sole source available in enough quantities to meet the nation's rubber needs.

"Therefore," he asserted, "it would be advisable to take alcohol from grain and produce it in quantities as rapidly as needed and convert it into rubber."

"If we do this within the year, we will be able to produce enough rubber for our war needs."

Stocks Lost Some In Quiet Session

NEW YORK, June 24—(AP)—Stocks lost a little ground on balance today in one of the quietest sessions of the year.

Until near the closing hour minor fractional gains and declines were about evenly distributed. The scales were tipped in favor of the minus side by a slow retreat in oils and industrial specialties. Coppers and a few others were resistant. Motors were mostly a little in arrears.

Dealings approximated 250,000 shares for the five hours.

Service Charge Ceilings Into Effect July 1

Questions And Answers Give Idea Of Order Scope

WASHINGTON, June 24—(AP)—

The cost of shoe shines, automobile repairs, piano tuning, funerals and all other consumer services will be limited beginning July 1 to the highest levels charged in March.

The Office of Price Administration issued price ceiling regulations last night that will affect 1,000,000 establishments doing an annual business of $5,000,000,000 throughout the country. It supplements the price control order of April 28 covering consumer goods.

Exempted from the new regulations were professional services, such as those performed by physicians, dentists, lawyers and barbers.

The following questions and answers explain the scope of the new order:

Q. What is a consumer service?

A. A consumer service under the regulation is a service rendered in connection with a commodity for the ultimate consumer such as the housewife, the motorist or the farmer.

Q. What are examples of consumer services?

A. Laundry, dry-cleaning and shoe repairs are some of the most common services performed for consumers. Others are the lubrication or repair of a private passenger car, the developing and printing of amateur films, the repair and servicing of home radio sets and electrical appliances, and the sharpening of household knives and scissors.

Q. May prices be charged below the ceiling?

A. Yes, the regulation does no more than place a top limit below which prices cannot go.

Special Rates

Q. Some members of a chain of shoe-repair shops during March made a special rate of 75 cents for half-soling men's shoes. Other members of the chain held to the customary price of $1.00. What is the ceiling price in these establishments?

A. The ceiling price has nothing to do with the ownership of the store or service business. The ceiling price is determined for each separate establishment on the basis of the highest price which it charged for a service supplied during March. For any stores which cut the price to 75 cents during the entire month the ceiling is 75 cents. For those which sold as high as $1.00 the ceiling is $1.00.

Q. Does the consumer service price regulation put a ceiling on charges for such personal services as haircuts and manicures?

A. No, the definition of "service" in the consumer service price regulation is limited to those rendered in connection with a commodity.

Other Services

Q. Are there any other services which are not covered by the regulation?

A. Yes, in addition a list is incorporated which specifically excludes a variety of other services including professional services.

Q. Is any provision made to take care of substantial hardship?

A. Yes, the Office of Price Administration has set up machinery by which a person may apply for relief.

Q. Must a service establishment post any ceiling prices in a manner similar to the "cost-of-living" posting rules of the general maximum price regulation?

A. No, the regulation does not require any service establishment to display a list of the ceiling prices.

Must Make Report

Q. But does not the consumer service establishment have to make some list or report of its ceiling prices?

A. Yes, every person supply a consumer service over which this regulation sets a price ceiling must prepare by September 1 a complete list of the highest prices he charged for all service he supplied during March for which prices were regularly quoted in that month. This report must also show any pricing method regularly used in March, and all customary allowances and discounts.

Q. What are the provisions about licenses?

A. Every person selling a consumer service is automatically licensed under this regulation, and every new seller automatically is licensed. There is no certificate or other actual license, but the seller is licensed nevertheless.

Q. What is the purpose of the license?

A. It is a method of enforcement. If a seller, after a warning from OPA, violates the regulation, a court of proper jurisdiction may suspend the license for as long as 12 months. Without a license it is illegal to sell services which are under this regulation.

Need Doctors And Dentists

The Navy needs doctors and dentists.

Recent rumors that the Navy is no longer accepting applications for commissions in the Medical and Dental Corps were declared today by Naval procurement officers as being without foundation.

Comdr. Emil J. Stein, senior medical officer of the Office of Naval Officer Procurement in the Board of Trade Building, said that the enlistment of thousands of men daily made it imperative for the Navy to keep the fighting fleets and shore establishments supplied with doctors and dentists to maintain the high Navy health standards.

"The procurement of doctors and dentists is vital to the Navy now. Trained men are needed to treat the sick and wounded. We are here to help these trained men get into naval service with a minimum of delay," he pointed out.

Physicians and dentists from 21 to 50 years of age who can pass the physical and other requirements may apply for commissions. Practicing physicians and dentists receive ranks ranging from lieutenant, junior grade, or lieutenant commander according to specialties, experience and other qualifications.

given Malto-bound British convoys, he said, and brought German bombers within 300 miles of the British naval base at Alexandria.)

Strength Opposite Capuzzo

The heaviest German strength was ranged opposite Capuzzo, the old Italian border fort in Libya which now is the keystone of Lieutenant General Neil M. Ritchie's outer line.

In addition, British reconnaissance reported that "very strong" axis forces of tanks and motorized infantry were moving up along the coastal road toward the Egyptian border.

Rommel's blow was expected to fall when these reinforcements have taken their places, the British said. They described them as relatively fresh since they were not involved in the fierce assault on Tobruk.

Regrouping Forces

The British, meanwhile, were taking advantage of the pause to regroup their forces for the vital new test and to smash with air-power behind the axis lines.

Big United States Liberator bombers cooperated with the RAF in one devastating bombardment on Bengasi, the axis' important Libyan supply depot, it was disclosed yesterday, and British fliers also have struck at Greece and Crete—whence, it is feared, the Germans may try to drop paratroopers and air-borne infantry behind the British lines.

Axis forces swarming down the coastal road now are within range of naval guns from which they were safe until fighting in central Libya. The fleet, whose function had been chiefly to maintain communications, was expected now to help harass Rommel's exposed flank on the coast.

"I threw the owl to the crocodile and dropped on the ground, crying like a baby. But not long. I tore into the food can with a knife like a maniac."

"Hours later a plane landed near the beach and an Australian pilot helped me aboard."

Two other United States pilots lost in this area recently also are safe.

One was spotted on a river bank, but when food was dropped from a plane it fell on the opposite side of a stream which was thick with crocodiles. The hapless pilot waited 36 hours, with food in sight but beyond his reach, before he was rescued.

The other flier was sheltered in a native camp.

Wheat Drifted; Then Rallied

CHICAGO, June 24—(AP)—With

buying sentiment chilled by war news and uncertainty regarding legislation vitally affecting grains now pending in congress, wheat prices drifted fractionally lower today partly as a result of small scale hedging operations in connection with the new crop movement, but later rallied.

Receipts of cash wheat continued to run in excess of arrivals a week ago but were well below volume at this time last year. Traders said this reflected lagging new crop movement due to wet weather and scarcity of storage space.

Late short covering and buying attributed to mills converted wheat losses of as much as ½ cent into small net gains. Wheat closed ¼ to ½ cent higher than yesterday. July $1.18½, September $1.21¼, to $1.21½; corn unchanged to ¼ cent higher. July 86½c to 86½c, September 89½c to 89½c; oats ¾ to ¾ cent up; soybeans 1 to 1½ cent higher.

Barley 1 to 1½ cent higher.

Wheat: 71 cars, unchanged to ½ cent lower. No. 2 dark hard, $1.15 to $1.16; No. 3

Are Highly Critical Over War Contracts

Committee In Report Suggests Waste Be Out

WASHINGTON, June 24—(AP)—Hitting at "reckless spending," mounting bureaucracy and cost-plus army contracts, the House military committee Tuesday issued a strongly-worded report asserting that "nearly every conceivable type of extravagant waste" had been reflected in its investigation of War Department business dealings.

"There has been evidence of widespread and inexcusable waste of public funds amounting to millions of dollars," declared the reports prepared by chairman May (D-Ky.), who said the year-old inquiry would continue.

The committee split sharply on the findings, with three Democrats reported to have joined nine Republicans to approve the report 12 to 9.

The report criticized virtually every branch of the War Department, including the air corps, and likewise voiced displeasure with the Maritime Commission. Secretary of Commerce Jones, however, was commended for "pushing the synthetic rubber program."

The committee urged that an immediate curb be placed on contracts awarded on a cost-plus-a-fixed-fee basis, asserting: "This type of contract permitted excessive personnel, exorbitant salaries and led to the refusal on the part of contractors to submit specialty contracts when they were totally unprepared either to plan or execute them. Evidence of reckless expenditures under fixed-fee contracts, particularly in the air corps branch, continues to increase in committee files."

Tendency For Boards.

Of bureaucracy, the committee said there was a tendency on the part of the administration to create new boards, bureaus and commissions, "whenever a new or varied problem is presented." "Citizens of this country," the report warned, "cannot be expected to be faced interminably with indifference in spending on the part of the officials of their government after the period of initial necessity has passed, and continue buying bonds with enthusiasm, overlooking the extension of bureaucratic domination and suffering deprivations with a partments, the committee said complacent attitude."

Turning to the individual departments the committee said of the air corps:

"The air corps overlooked many opportunities to have much more efficient and modern planes prior to the outbreak of war in Europe in 1939. 'We developed the dive bomber, yet we had none. We are just getting them now. We pioneered in self-sealing gas tanks, but abandoned them and the Germans demonstrated how necessary they are.'"

The Maritime Commission, the report declared, "has failed to provide adequately for the movement of strategic raw materials by use of the tonnage actually or potentially under its control."

Overall, the committee said that it had uncovered evidence disclosing "a sordid picture of excessive commissions by brokers, profits by vendors, exorbitant salaries, bonuses and huge fees for management and related services in many War Department contracts."

The government has a responsibility, committeemen said, to "eliminate exorbitant profits not after the war is over but during the period the war is being prosecuted."

WASHINGTON, June 23—(AP)—Reports of "important progress" in the standardization and improvement of the War Department's land acquisition procedure were made to the House today by its military affairs committee.

Reviewing investigations by a subcommittee into acquisition of sites for ordnance plants, the committee said that "while there can be no well-founded criticisms of the results obtained by the War Department in securing land, there has been much criticism of the methods used."

It said that the Department at the beginning of the war effort had attempted to minimize hardships as would have resulted from condemnation proceedings by engaging brokers to negotiate land sales to the government.

"It was found, the committee said, 'that although this method did in fact eliminate many of the objections, it did not furnish proper safeguards as to price; in other words, the only way possible in which all land in a given area could be acquired voluntarily was to pay, in the long run, whatever prices were asked, and experience indicated that these were so unreasonable as to be completely out of the question.'"

The committee cited as a "typical example" a situation at Well-ton Springs, Mo. It said it was felt by the War Department when its real estate division was reorganized in February, 1941, that prices being paid for land for an ordnance plant there "appeared to be higher than the normal market value."

Question of Two Evils

The committee said the War Department's attitude was that it was "a question of two evils—whether to go ahead and complete the payment of prices which were unquestionably high, thereby affording opportunity for justifiable criticism, or to suspend payments, at the risk of causing suffering and hardship, and let the courts pass upon the duties and obligations of the War Department."

The latter course was decided upon, the committee reported, and the matter still rests with the courts.

The committee said, however, that the government had agreed to liberalize its procedure. The present policies of land acquisition were introduced in February, 1941, the committee said, adding that "further important progress has been made in standardizing and improving the War Department's land acquisition procedure" since transfer of the construction division to the chief engineers in December, 1941.

Part of Summary

A summary of a report concerning a subcommittee's investigation of land acquisition complaints included:

Lake City Ordnance Plant, Independence, Mo.—Through the recommendation of the mayor of Independence, a "reliable real estate firm (not identified) was selected to negotiate options of land on a two per cent commission basis. Some 22 options covering 2,612 acres were obtained. The options were not exercised and under new negotiations the government paid $60,000 in excess of the original price for the land."

Fort Riley, Kas.—Investigation to determine whether there were irregularities in connection with land acquisition developed that discontent among landowners was traceable to "alleged inconsistencies in appraisals, which question is one for administrative determination and has been referred to the federal court." The committee also reported investigation into construction at Fort Riley and Camp Funston (on Fort Riley Reservation) disclosed no irregularities but "on the contrary," a most commendable situation prevailed.

Camp Crowder, Neosho, Mo.—The committee heard testimony concerning alleged coercive means employed by government appraisers to stampede landowners into swift and ill-considered acceptance of terms. "Bid prices," it was testified, "were usually one-half or less than asking prices; hold-outs were threatened with court action with costs that would net them an even smaller return." The committee said that on the other hand much of the land was purchased in the depression area, whereas owners were inclined to calculate values under inflation prices. Cases of complaints heard were referred to War Department with result the Department had undertaken to renegotiate many of the cases and to revise some of the appraisals.

Our Congressman Says—

Reorganization. — After much pounding by some independent members of congress, the president has agreed a change in the government propaganda services is in order. He appointed Elmer Davis, New Deal commentator, to coordinate the overlapping activities. Credit should also go to Navy Secretary Frank Knox, who has abolished 135 useless, expensive, time consuming printed reports. He promises promotions and bonuses to navy employees who think of good ways to save time and money for Uncle Sam. It shouldn't be necessary to give special inducements to do an important job right but the Knox plan is producing results.

Kings, Queens, Presidents, and Prime Ministers, South American dictators, etc., are a dime a dozen in Washington just now. I shook hands with the King of Greece the other way when he spoke to the congress. He is a fine fellow and spoke perfect English with no accent whatever. The Duke of Windsor, ex-king of England, is now back in Washington after a hurried dash back home to stop a riot there. Cause of the riot and the Duke's visit here is that increased living costs growing out of high wages paid American workmen on war projects there have upset the economic life of the Bahamas. Native workers have been getting 81 cents per day and American common laborers on the same job get $1.00 per hour.

An Inside Story. The president recommended a 100 per cent war super tax to limit individual incomes to $25,000 per year after all taxes are paid. That would affect 11,000 persons. The ways

Hughesville Takes Big End of Score From Dresden 8-4

The Sacred Heart softball team, Tuesday evening, defeated the Missouri Pacific Apprentice club by a 4 to 3 score after the game was tied in the seventh by the shop aggregation. Hughesville taking an early lead took over the large end of the score with the Dresden Rattle Snakes, 8 to 4, while the Eugene Field Sluggers forfeited their game to the Stewart Avenue Market.

The game between the Lamonte Vikings and the Eugene Field Adco team will be played Sunday afternoon. Players on both teams were unable to show up Tuesday night and the game was postponed.

Tie In Seventh

In the first game Sacred Heart scored three runs in the fourth inning and in the sixth the shops sent two runs across the plate and another tally in the seventh to tie the game up. In the last half of the game Butler, who had made third base was scored on Williams single.

In the second game Hughesville put four runs across the plate in the first inning, after which the game settled down to a real battle. Dresden scored in the third, again in the fifth and two in the sixth, while Hughesville's other tallies came in the third and three in the fifth.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Wide World Sports Columnist

NEW YORK, June 24.—Ed Bang, Cleveland News sports editor, personally disposed of tickets for last night's "buy a bomber" fight show. That's putting it over with a bang... Bill Terry claims that every time he has seen a ball game this summer the Giants have lost. But Bill hasn't seen enough to take full responsibility for what Mel Ott's boys have been doing... Earl Stewart and Ray Brownell, inventors to repeat last year's final battle in the intercollegiate golf championship, hold five course records between them. Stewart once shot a 60 on a par 70 course.

A Miner Error

After relating how a Texas league batsman fanned and was thrown out by the right fielder, we came across this one pulled by the Joplin Miners of the Western Association: The Joplin catcher muffed a third strike and overthrew first... While the first sacker went to retrieve the ball, the catcher, loaded with all his armor, beat the runner down the baseline and took the throw for a putout at first.

Service Dept.

Frank Goetze, star back of the All-Marine Corps football team just after World War I—Walter Camp called him "as great as Jim Thorpe"—is a lieutenant colonel overseas with the Marines... When Holt Rast, Alama's crack end last season, appeared on the campus four years ago, the first student he met was Cary Cox. Last week when Lieutenant Rast joined the 9th division at Fort Bragg, N. C., he received a message to phone the adjutant of the "Go Devil" regiment—who is Lieut. Cary Cox.

Shear Nonsense

Frank Metzinger of the Peru, Ill. News-Herald reports that when Earl Williams, star first sacker of the Stateville penitentiary team, was released he began taking orders from crooks. He joined a Chicago team manager by Otto Crooks... And when Jerry Nason of the Boston Globe heard that Sports Scribe Bill Shirley had been signed as a player by the Little Rock Travelers he concluded "here's one ball player who will have the last word vs. the ump's."

Dodgers Have Erased Any Doubt Of Lead

Yankees Beat The Browns 6 to 5 To Come Out of Slump

By Judson Bailey
The Brooklyn Dodgers have erased virtually all question of their retaining the National league pennant, but they are giving their fans something to ponder in the way of batting and most valuable player honors.

Peter Reiser and Joe Medwick are away out in front of everyone else in the league in batting and it is generally conceded that they are the foremost candidates for recognition this year as the most valuable player in the National league.

French Still Valuable

But the records would seem to show that Larry French is just about as valuable as any other one man on the Dodgers. He stepped into the breach again last night in a relief role to beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-2 for his sixth triumph without a defeat this year.

The lefthander who was almost cut loose by the Dodgers during spring training stopped Brooklyn's worst losing streak in May with a four-hit eleven-inning 3-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. He stopped another short losing streak later that month by shutting out the New York Giants; and last week he stopped a St. Louis winning streak.

French always has been around when needed and last night when Whitlow Wyatt couldn't get his throwing arm loosened up, Larry was flagged in from the bullpen at the start of the third inning. The score was 2-2 at the time and French pitched shutout ball for the rest of the way and also set off the winning rally.

With two out in the fifth inning the pitcher singled. Two hits loaded the bases and then Reiser singled two runs home and Medwick knocked another pair across with a double—extending his batting streak to 26 games.

Yankees Have Barrage

The New York Yankees came out of their slump by nailing out the St. Louis Browns 6-5 with a 14-hit barrage including three safeties by Joe Gordon and a like number by Joe DiMaggio. The Browns succeeded in belting Atley Donald off the mound with a three run uprising in the eighth but it was insufficient.

The Boston Red Sox smashed the Detroit Tigers into submission 6-2 with Oscar Judd scattering eight hits and himself getting one of Boston's three home runs. Ted Williams hit one, his 16th of the season, and Jim Tabor the other.

The Cleveland Indians also collected three homers in overpowering the Philadelphia Athletics 7-5. The Tribe's round trippers were by Oris Hockett, Les Fleming and Ken Keltner. The A's made four runs in the fifth inning when Bob Johnson homered with two aboard.

The Cincinnati Reds, who had won 13 of their last 17 games and were hopeful of getting within sight of the Dodgers during their eastern invasion, were rudely shutout by the New York Giants 7-0 as Bill Lohman pitched a four-hitter.

Second In Nine Games

It was the Giants' seventh victory in nine games against the Reds and also Lohman's third triumph over them. The victim of the New York pounding was Paul Derringer. The weak fielding Reds made three errors and four double plays.

The Chicago Cubs captured a free hitting affair from the Philadelphia Phils 8-4, although out 13-12. The big blow in the Bruins' assault was a three-run homer by Lou Novikoff.

Bobby Jones Quitting For The Duration

Saw Some Real Golf While Playing In The Hale America Meet

By SID FEDER
NEW YORK, June 24.—(P)—When a fellow shoots close-to-par golf and still winds up 19 strokes back of the top money, it's time to admit the other guys may be getting "too hot" for him, but that's not the reason Bobby Jones is hanging up his clubs for the duration.

Bobby—it's Capt. Robert Tyre Jones now—was still slightly shell-shocked today as he recalled last week's Hale America tournament at Chicago, during which Ben Hogan left him far back, although he was right up near regulation figures all the way.

Trade Sticks For Uniform
But he pointed out emphatically that the big idea in trading in his sticks for that soldier suit and those double silver shoulder bars was that he figured he could use his eyes for something more important than lining up putts.

So did Uncle Sam's army. And, as a result, the round-faced man with the peachtree street accent started out today on an assignment that will make him the biggest pair of eyes among the 800,000 pairs that will be spotting enemy planes for the army's fighter aircraft along the Atlantic seaboard from Maine to Key West.

Fresh from the Chicago shot-making, he was ordered to start a course here in the aircraft warning service, which means observation posts along the entire coast line.

To Be An Instructor
"After completing this course," explained Brig. Gen. John K. Cannon, commanding general of the first fighter command, "Captain Jones will be assigned to organizing and instructing volunteers in this vital observation service."

The service comprises more than 800,000 civilian volunteers. They have truly been described as the eyes of the first fighter command. They release for combat duty thousands of soldiers—as many as 30,000 or 40,000—who would otherwise have to man the observation posts.

About golf—well, Bobby was awe-struck at Hogan's last four putts on the final four holes of the Hale America.

"Those putts Ben made were four of the greatest I ever saw," the one-time grand-slam championship winner emphasized. "One was a 15-footer, another a 20-footer. And all under pressure, mind up. Best thing about it was I had a grand stand seat... I was playing with Ben on that last round. And brother, I really saw some golf."

Pepper Martin Has Now Quit Worrying

By JIM HUTCHINSON
SEATTLE, June 24.—(P)—Pepper Martin, having shed his baby teeth as a class AA league baseball manager, has learned to quit worrying—and his Sacramento ball club is up there on top again. It's no novelty for the Pepper box's team to lead the Pacific Coast league. It had a 15-game margin over the field in mid-season last year, the first for the former St. Louis Cardinal star as a manager. Then, long before the year of the big rubber shortage, the Sacs lost their bounce. They collapsed in the stretch to finish behind Seattle.

"I worried all the time last year," drawled the one-time Wild Hoss of the Osage, on his first 1942 appearance in the town that beat him out of the 1941 pennant. "Even when my team was on top, I'll bet I worried more than the rest of the managers together."

"But this year it's different. We got off to a terrible start. We couldn't hit and we were doing

Holds Office During Service

Ruling It Not Vacated While On Military Duty

JEFFERSON CITY, June 24—(P)—The State Supreme Court ruled Wednesday that Circuit Judge Ray E. Watson of Jasper county did not vacate his office by entering active military service.

In a decision with might affect many Missouri officials joining the army or navy, the court declared:

"The fact that Judge Watson is unable personally to perform his judicial duties while in military service does not make his holding both offices (as judge and military officer) incompatible under the circumstances."

Indicating, however, that the same ruling might not apply to all officials, the court continued:

"If the law did not permit a substitute to carry on the duties of the office in his absence, a different question might be presented. We need neither discuss nor decide that."

Attorney General Roy McKittick recently wrote an advisory opinion that officials enlisting in military service vacated their office, but he declined to rule on the case of an official who was drafted, saying that was a question for the courts to decide.

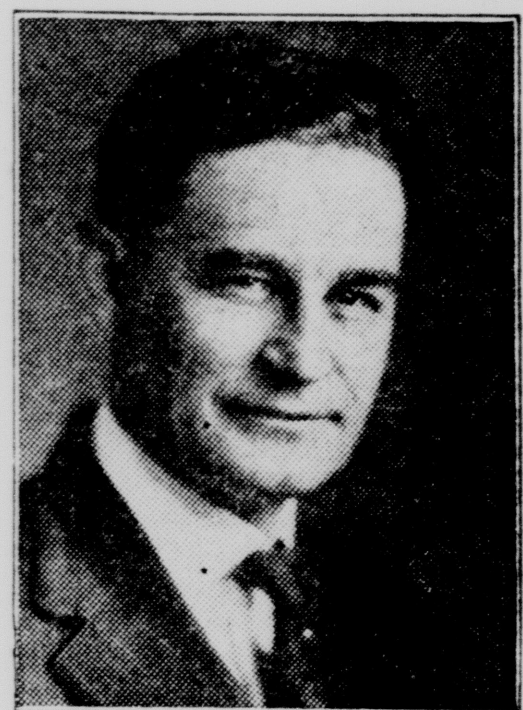

Watson, a Colonel in the Missouri National Guard, was called to active duty in 1940 as commander of a coast artillery anti-aircraft regiment. He recently returned to the bench, but during his absence special judges elected by Jasper county lawyers substituted for him.

Challenge Jurisdiction
The jurisdiction of Charles M. Grayson, one special judge, was challenged by a defendant in a damage suit, who carried the case to the Supreme Court, contending that Watson had vacated the office and that a successor should be appointed instead of employing the system of electing special judges.

The constitution, the court conceded, does bar any person holding an office of profit under the United States from holding any state office of profit.

But, the court declared, "it is our conclusion that this provision was never intended to apply and does not now apply to the militia-

Honor Guests At Knights Of Pythias Meeting On Tuesday

Ira E. Clark

P. G. Walker

Sedalia Lodge No. 27, Knights of Pythias, held its regular meeting Monday night in the lodge hall, 114 1/2 East Fifth street, at which time Ira E. Clark, special deputy Supreme Chancellor, of Minneapolis, Minn., and P. G. Walker, Grand Chancellor, of Springfield, were special guests.

Mr. Clark recently returned from the New England states where he made the annual visit to various lodges of that section. In his talk before the local lodge he told of his visits. He took as his subject "Fraternal Orders Have Their Place in the Community", and told of the civic duties of the organizations, especially the Knights of Pythias.

He is at the head of the educational department of the organization and his talk was very interesting as well as beneficial.

Mr. Walker met Mr. Clark in Kansas City where the two officers made their annual call upon Lodge No. 1, of Missouri, and spoke. Mr. Walker spoke on the work being done in Missouri by the various lodges of the organization.

They were introduced by E. V. Scifers, chancellor commander of the Sedalia lodge.

Mr. Clark and Mr. Walker left this morning for Boonville and Hannibal where they will visit lodges of those two places and give talks.

DeJarnett Brothers Prefer The Navy

DeJarnett, Machinist Mate, Second Class, United States Coast Guard, who is stationed at Norfolk, Va., has arrived home for a seven day furlough, and this morning his younger brother, Harold, departed for St. Louis to take his physical examination for the Coast Guard. "J. C." as he is known, is visiting his mother, Mrs. Myrtle DeJarnett, 1203 South Lamine avenue.

Another brother, Ira Leroy was recently given a medical discharge from the Navy and is now working in Norfolk, Va., under civil service.

J. C. was one of the first members of the Sedalia Democrat Golden Glove boxers to enter the service, more than two years ago. Harold is a graduate from the Smith-Cotton high school and was an all-around athlete at the school during his four years there.

Begin Surveys For a Pipe Line

WASHINGTON, June 24—(P)—Petroleum Coordinator Ickes announced Tuesday that ground surveys have been started to determine the exact route of the 24-inch Texas-to-Illinois oil pipe line "which will provide partial relief for the east coast shortage area next winter."

Simultaneously, he disclosed that the government-owned, non-profit, common carrier line would be constructed for the government by War Emergency Pipeline Inc., an organization of 11 companies that supply petroleum along the Atlantic seaboard.

The announcement said the 550-mile conduit, with a daily capacity of 300,000 barrels and between $35,000,000 and $40,000,000, would "extend from Longview, in the heart of the East Texas oil field, across the states of Arkansas and Missouri to Illinois. It will cross the Mississippi river at Thebes, Ill., about 10 miles below Cape Girardeau, Mo."

What would you do if—

You see, in her yard, a woman who has just moved into the house next to yours—

- (a) Speak to her
- (b) Go on about your business without speaking?

Answers

1. Yes, since it is more likely to annoy your neighbors when your windows and theirs are up.
2. Yes.
3. They should wait on themselves.
4. She shouldn't insist, though it is considerate to offer, because some women prefer to have their kitchens to themselves when they are getting a meal on the table.
5. It makes the situation less awkward if they do.

Better "What Would You Do" solution—(a) is the neighborly thing to do.

Registration of youths 18-20 will add more than 2,000,000 to the ranks of single U. S. registrants under 45, but most of the 18-20 group will not be available for military service under present laws.
